

All World Flavour Making Guide

Please find below a list of all the flavours and how to make them. Every flavour comes in boxes of 16 which make 8 or 16 drinks. If the flavour only makes 8 drinks, then half of the pods will be milk. All pods are named with the flavour printed on them and a scale on the side showing seven lines some filled some not. This is for the automatic machines to help make the drink using the recommended amount of water for the right taste. The lower smaller line is the first line for espressos and small drinks and the larger one is for the bigger drinks. You just need to select the right level to match each pod as you make them. You can use the lines as a guide when using a manual machine or can change the setting with the auto machine to suit your taste. The flavours with two pods will come with two different coloured bottoms. They are usually black or brown for the tea, coffee or chocolate pod. The milk pods are white. You need to check the order in which you make them as it changes depending on the flavour. Feel free to experiment as there are many ways to change the proportion of water and combinations of pods. Please note the auto fill setting may produce varied levels of drink using the same setting on different flavour pods due to the levels of powder inside the pod.
